

A big hello to everyone from King's Park Early years team. We hope you are all keeping safe and well at home and doing a great job of being Our "Stay at home Superhero's!" We have been working on some learning activities that you can enjoy at home. Each week we will choose a book and give you activities to do based around the story of the week.

This week we have chosen "The Tiger Who Came to Tea by Judith Kerr

Maths and Numeracy

Why don't you have your own tea party. You could make your own sandwiches and cut them in to rectangles or triangles.

What kind of filling would you have?

What about making some yummy buns?

Remember to weigh and measure out the ingredients and follow the method.

I'm sure the adult's will be happy to help you.

Literacy

In the story, Sophie and her mummy had to go shopping.

Could you make up a shopping list? Think of what you would need to buy. You can draw, mark make or even attempt to write some words.

Here are a few words to help you. Milk

Bread

Butter

Tiger food

Health and Well-being

The tiger ate a lot of food and drank lots at Sophie's house.

How do you think Sophie felt about having no food and drink in the house?

Are you good at sharing?

What are you good at sharing with?

Sophie and her family go to the café in the end. Have you ever been to a café or restaurant?

What is your favourite food to eat?

Expressive Arts

Can you make a tiger mask?

What about recycling some of your cereal boxes. You could use pens, pencils, crayons or paints.

Think about what colour you would like to make your mask.

Be creative as you like.

Once you have finished, why don't you tweet us a photo so we can all see.

Technology

The tiger came to visit Sophie at her home but where do you think he came from?

Try and find out by using the internet/ The tiger ate sandwiches, buns and biscuit's, do you think tigers eat those type of foods?

What do you think they eat?
